Lyndhurst, Tarrytown is America's premier Gothic Revival mansion and a magnificent Hudson Valley estate. Designed by renowned architect A.J. Davis in 1838 as a country retreat for William Paulding, former mayor of New York City, Lyndhurst was later purchased by merchant George Merritt and financial tycoon Jay Gould. Today, as then, Lyndhurst is a serene escape from the bustle of New York City. Experience Lyndhurst's dramatic mansion with its elaborately decorated rooms, stained glass and artwork, and stroll the estate's landscaped grounds with its conservatory, rose garden and spectacular views of the Hudson River.
